From reading information boards as every crew it's explicit namely Bengals fans and Saints fans absence to believe they came up with the idea first (If anyone thinks they have definitive proof feel free to send it along among the comments section beneath) It reminds me of the spat over the Seahawks' use of the phrase "the 12th man." Texas A&M got its knickers into a distort as it had copyrighted the term. The matter about went to court forward the two parties stable. Many Bengals fans discard theories that a variation of the saying started surrounded New Orleans instead of Cincinnati.
